Fifty years from now in an ordinary school

A girl finds a faded flag

Black white green

And a red that hurts

She looks at the boy beside her

And whispers:

"What country was this?"

He breathes and says:

"It was my land

I am the child of a survivor

Palestine no longer exists"

"Read twenty twenty-five

It says genocide

And the world stayed silent

And your father stayed silent"

Free free Palestine

Free free Palestine

Not in my name

Not in my silence

Free free Palestine

Children sleeping forever under the rubble

Children covered in dust like seeds that never grew

"If I had been born there I would not be here"

Forgive my father Forgive my mother

They did not understand the silence

they were making

From the river to the sea

Let the children all be free

Free free Palestine

We are voice not silence

Free free Palestine

Children are not meant to be killed

Genocide is an eternal crime

Palestine exists Gaza is my city
